Sir

Having read the plan I am confused by the Development Objectives numbers 1 to 5. You state that the community wishes all 5 of these objectives. This is patently untrue.

No one in East Hoathly wanted to see 600 new homes, a potential population increase of 2000 persons and another 1200 cars in the village.

Your charts suggest the village will suffer a growth of 140%. You state that the sewage works is barely functioning and that the new development will put more strain on the system.

This isn't a plan worth arguing with since it's obvious that they are irrelevant and a waste of time. Its full of platitudinous nonsense about preserving the character of the place, its green spaces... rare rabbits and so on, but we all know that this is ignored when it comes to passing plans from developers who want to make loads of money at the locals expense. Capitalism rules doesn't it.

The new development will ruin the character of the village; but no one outside the village cares.

M McDougall
